

Cell phones have not been proven safe on aircraft. As a retired flight attendant, I am concerned about safety and my ability to communicate with passengers who may not hear or follow directions in an emergency because they are on a phone. Hijackers could also use phones to communicate with one another.